Hi Wayne, the BMW I bought from you last week has just gone into limp mode on the M4 with the engine management light on. Had to be recovered. Need to talk about this asap.

Sorry to hear that mate. Take it to your local garage and see what they say. Probably just a sensor, these things happen.

Hi Wayne, had it diagnosed today, the turbo's failed. Mechanic says it'll be £4,320 to fix and the fault was developing before I bought it. I want to reject the car under the Consumer Rights Act please.

Delivered

Sorry pal but it's sold as seen. You drove it, you accepted it. We've all got bills to pay.

Wayne, used cars from a trader aren't sold as seen. I've got rights here. You also offered me an extended warranty for £799, surely you wouldn't sell that if you thought the car was going to fail.

If you'd taken the warranty we'd be covering it now. You declined. Nothing we can do.

I'm asking you formally to take the car back and refund me £14,500. Can you confirm by tomorrow please.

Delivered

Mate I'll pass it up the chain but don't hold your breath. Sold as seen.
