Dear Ms Sharma,

Thank you for your patience while we reviewed your compensation claim relating to flight ST3214 from London Heathrow to Rome Fiumicino on 14 August 2025.

We have completed our investigation and I regret to inform you that your claim for compensation under UK Regulation (EC) No 261/2004 (UK261) has not been upheld.

The departure of ST3214 on 14 August 2025 was delayed by 7 hours due to extraordinary circumstances caused by air traffic control restrictions imposed by EUROCONTROL on routes through the Karlsruhe and Reims sectors. These restrictions were outside our reasonable control and could not have been avoided even if all reasonable measures had been taken.

Article 5(3) of UK Regulation 261/2004 provides that an operating air carrier shall not be obliged to pay compensation if it can prove that the cancellation or long delay was caused by extraordinary circumstances. We consider that this exemption applies to the disruption affecting your flight.

Please be assured that we did everything within our control to minimise the disruption, including reasonable assistance at the gate. We are sorry for the inconvenience caused.

Your right of duty of care under UK261 (refreshments and communication during the delay) is unaffected by this decision. If you incurred reasonable expenses (food and drink) during the delay and have receipts, please send them to us by reply and we will assess these separately.

If you remain dissatisfied with this decision, you may refer the matter to AviationADR within 12 months. Their contact details can be found at <https://www.aviationadr.org.uk>.

Yours sincerely,

James Bennett
